In this role, the successful applicant will be responsible for planning and managing exploration projects, as well as working with senior management to identify and evaluate new exploration and business opportunities. This is an exceptional opportunity for an energetic and capable individual to advance their career while working with a team of experienced industry professionals. The successful candidate will have a solid technical foundation, a business orientation, and a keen interest in helping Serengeti to both advance its current projects and progress new exploration ventures. Work schedule will include a mix of field and office work. Position will be based in Vancouver, British Columbia.

About Serengeti Resources

Serengeti is a mineral exploration company managed by an experienced team of professionals with a solid track record of exploration success. The Company is currently advancing its resource-stage Kwanika porphyry copper-gold project, and exploring its extensive portfolio of exploration projects in both British Columbia and Mexico.

Qualifications

The following will be expected from the successful candidate:

- Six to ten years' experience in technical roles within the exploration and/or mining industry
- A demonstrated history of career progression
- Solid project management experience
- A firm understanding of geological and exploration principles with respect to hydrothermal mineral deposits; focus on porphyry and epithermal deposits is considered an asset
- Strong technical writing skills
- Familiarity with one or more GIS mapping programs (ArcGIS, Mapinfo, GEMS, etc)
- Minimum BSc is required; advanced post-graduate degree is an asset
- Working knowledge of Spanish an asset

Above all, the successful applicant will be an ambitious and enthusiastic critical thinker who is seeking an opportunity to significantly broaden their technical and managerial skill set within the mining industry.

Compensation

An industry competitive salary depending on experience plus the position is eligible for Serengeti's Employee Benefit and Stock Option Plans.
